Dear parents and carers,

I hope this newsletter finds you all well. This has been a short week, particularly for pupils, but we have still been able to observe the children working hard and observing our school values, in particular our value of the week: safety. Class teachers shared many varied examples of how children have demonstrated this value, both in class and out on the playground this week. Well done to all those children named below!

You will be aware that our Breakfast Club is back up and running. Please note that this is still not operating on a 'drop-in' basis, and all children must be registered to attend. To register, please contact the school office.
